ABOUT ME

"I am a Bachelor of Science in Information Technology student with a strong passion for software testing, particularly test automation. I enjoy designing efficient automated test scripts, identifying and resolving software defects, and ensuring high-quality, reliable software through rigorous testing processes. I have a keen interest in implementing testing frameworks, performing functional and performance testing, and contributing to continuous integration and delivery pipelines. Highly determined, disciplined, and persistent, I am committed to mastering the latest tools and best practices in software testing and automation. My analytical mindset, attention to detail, and dedication to quality drive me to succeed as a proactive and versatile software testing professional."
